Filling the Gaps: Professional Development Programs Designed for Transportation Personnel

July 14th, 2016 1:30 – 3:00PM

The Northeast Transportation Workforce Center (NETWC) is proud to join with the American Public Works Association, the Connecticut Local Technical Assistance Program, and the Louisiana Leadership Development Institute to bring you this roundtable discussion on professional development programs for adults in the public sector transportation industry. By engaging with transportation leaders on a national, state, and academic backgrounds, participants will get the full breadth of professional development programs available to them to help advance their careers.

The roundtable will be moderated by the Director of the Cornell Local Roads Program, David Orr, who will be joined by:

- Mary Leah Coco, Ph.D., the director at the Louisiana Transportation Research Center’s Training and Education Center, located on the LSU Campus will be discussing the Louisiana Leadership Development Program.
- Donna Shea, the Program Director of the Connecticut Technology Transfer Center, at the University of Connecticut, for the past sixteen years, will be discussing the Connecticut Transportation Leadership Program.
- Mabel Tinijaca, Ph.D., the Director of Professional Development at APWA, as well as the principal and founder of the consulting firm Strategies for Growth, will be discussing the Public Works Credentialing Program and Basic Skills Course.
